Analysis

US Treasury yields rose from 1.06% to 1.42% while the yield on 10-year bonds (INDON31) denominated in USD closed at 2.59% at the end of February. The increase in global yield had a significant impact, especially on the emerging market. Investors continue to gauge the implications of a hike in US Treasury Yields while low growth in 2020 and higher fiscal stimulus for the National Economic Recovery (PEN) are causing domestic investor concerns. In February, the total foreign ownership of domestic securities was Rp. 971.4 trillion, lower than the figure at the beginning of January this year, which was Rp. 976.48 trillion. Inflation in February 2021 was recorded at 1.38% YoY or decreased by 0.26% from 1.55% inflation in January 2021. At the end of February 2021 Rupiah weakened to a level of IDR14,229 from previously IDR14,154 in January 2021.

Analysis

US Treasury yields rose again from 1.42% to 1.75% while the 10-year bond yield (INDON31) denominated in USD closed at 2.7% at the end of March. The increase in global inflation and US Treasury yields following the macro recovery in the US put pressure on the Indonesian government because investors did not want the governments of developing countries to resign. The government regulation regarding the Omnibus Law was also signed in February and the management of the Sovereign Wealth Fund has also been announced. However, the market turned volatile as the transaction value of retail investors and foreign investors became more cautious about rising global inflation and US Treasury yields. Bank Indonesia kept its benchmark interest rate at 3.5% in March 2021. Inflation in March was recorded at 1.37% YoY with monthly inflation of 0.08% MoM, easing due to lower car prices with tax incentives launched by the government to auto sector. Reserves increased from a level of USD 134 billion to USD 138.8 billion in Q1 21. The rupiah closed at a level of IDR 14,525 / USD at the end of March as the easing outflows from the market had hit the currency's performance.

Analysis

US Treasury yields fell from 1.75% to 1.63% while the 10-year bond yield (INDON31) denominated in USD closed at 2.3% at the end of April. The S&P rating agency maintains Indonesia's sovereign credit rating at BBB with a negative outlook. Meanwhile, march inflation also indicated a slowdown MoM due to lower car price following government's recent incentives to the auto sector. Moreover, the Fed's re-emphasis on dovish policies and Powell's commitment to act should inflation go beyond tolerable level. The trade balance in March remained positive at USD 1.6 billion on the back of strong exports of commodities such as CPO and iron and steel. Bank Indonesia maintained interest rate at 3.5% in April 2021. Inflation in April was recorded at 1.42% YoY with monthly inflation of 0.13% MoM, up from 1.37% in March driven by food and food inflation, restaurants as well as household appliances as the number of visits to shopping centers appears to have increased in April. The rupiah closed at IDR 14,445 / USD at the end of April.

Analysis

The market was hit by the rise of the US inflation which reached above 5% in May. Hence, the Fed has given a hawkish signal for the first time during the pandemic which sparked concerns among bond investors. The US Treasury yield fell from 1.58% to 1.47% while the USD denominated Indonesian 10-year yield (INDON31) closed at 2.08% at the end of June. The bond market started the month on a positive trend supported by foreign inflows and stronger demand in government bond auctions.

Analysis

The bond market posted positive performance in August as the 10-year government bond yield fell from 6.290% to 6.064%. Foreign investors booked net inflow of USD1bn into the bond market in August. The market was supported by improving COVID-19 conditions in Indonesia while the 2022 state budget draft looks favorable for the bond market as it aims to lower budget deficit. However, the market was hit due to sentiments from the Fed whose officials seem to lean towards taper announcement during the November FOMC meeting. The US Treasury yield rose from 1.23% to 1.31% while the USD denominated Indonesian 10-year yield (INDON31) closed at 2.13% at the end of August.
