GENERAL DISCLAIMERS:

The fact sheets on Max Funds are compiled by The Great Eastern Life Assurance Company Limited (GEL). The information presented is for informational use only. A product summary and a Product Highlights Sheet in relation to the funds may be obtained through GEL or its appointed distributors. Potential investors should read the product summary and the Product Highlights Sheet before deciding whether to invest in the funds. Returns on the units of the funds are not guaranteed. The value of the units in the funds and the income accruing to the units, if any, may fall or rise. The fees and charges payable through deduction of premium or cancellation of units are excluded in the calculation of fund returns. Past returns, and any other economic or market predictions, projections or forecasts, are not necessarily indicative of future or likely performance.

While 2017 ended with strong economic data and positive sentiments, the headline news during the first half of 2018 have been predominantly occupied with trade tensions around the world. Rising oil prices and interest rates were other headwinds faced by the global economy. Most equity markets ended the first half of 2018 in the red except for the US.

We remain committed to optimise your returns to help you achieve your financial goals.

As Great Eastern celebrates our 110th anniversary this year, thank you for choosing us as your trusted insurer and we look forward to your continued support.

Yours sincerely

Investment Outlook

The optimistic sentiment that started 2018 has turned cautious amid a host of fears. Most prominently, the trade-war tango between the US and China has left much of the world bewildered by the pace of twists and turns. While growth data remains sturdy across US and Europe, this has been offset by slowing momentum in Japan, China and Asia Pacific markets. With politics taking the spotlight away from central bank policies, investors will need to navigate an environment increasingly fraught with uncertainties. Although investors are risk-aware and mindful of the negative catalysts in the market, the environment presents opportunities for security selection, which includes taking advantage of short-term weakness to acquire quality assets at bargain prices.

US

While announced trade tariffs are expected to have little immediate impact on US economic growth, prolonged trade tensions may dent business confidence and delay capital expenditure. Offsetting this is the likely continuation of strong business spending and recovery in consumer spending, supported by fiscal stimulus and full employment. The impact of Fed normalising interest rates and balance sheet remains modest and continues to be data dependent – a third rate increase is likely in September 2018, with the door open for a fourth increase in December 2018. For the second half of 2018, the US market outlook seems better than other regions given the strong earnings growth and share buybacks.

Europe

Economic expansion in the euro area remains on track. Recent weakness in data and indicators is attributed to a temporary decline in foreign demand and the lagging impact of EUR appreciation in 2017. Private consumption is supported by employment gains from labour market reform and rising household wealth. Monetary conditions are supportive; while the European Central Bank has decided to end quantitative easing, they have also signalled key interest rates will remain stable through 1H 2019. However, rising US protectionism remains a key risk to Europe's growth outlook.

Japan

The Japanese stock market has seen a clear shift away from cyclical sectors to defensive sectors in the past few months and the divergence in performance is reaching historically highly-stretched levels. Nevertheless, with the global trade conflict at the forefront of the investment climate, investors are likely to remain in risk-off mode and seek shelter in defensive themes.

Asia Pacific ex-Japan

The positive economic momentum since 2017 has been interrupted, with leading indicators suggesting a peak together with news of downward guidance in corporate earnings growth. As the cycle slows, there is less scope for profit margins and revenues to surprise positively. However, corporate earnings are still expected to continue growing albeit at more moderate paces, supported by sturdy businesses and favourable macro fundamentals. Nevertheless, four main risks pose headwinds to sentiment: trade protectionism, rising oil prices, increasing bond yields and strong USD. Of the four, trade tensions are most severe and impactful for export-dependent Asia. The sense is trade sentiment may improve in the fourth quarter of 2018 and thus on a longer term perspective, the third quarter may be an ideal time to position portfolios with that time frame in mind.

Conclusion

While risk aversion has dampened sentiment, it has not derailed growth. There are opportunities for investors who remain focused on fundamentals and long-term growth prospects. Undeterred by short-term uncertainty, investors can continue to monitor markets closely for new developments and seek opportunities to invest into high quality assets at distressed prices. Maintaining a well-diversified portfolio can help investors to navigate this current uncertain environment and achieve their long term investment objectives.

Soft Dollar Commissions **

In accordance with new rules coming into force in January 2018 pursuant to EU Directive 2014/65/EU on markets in financial instruments referred to as “MiFID II”, BlackRock Group will no longer pay for external research via client trading commissions for its MiFID II-impacted funds (“MiFID II-impacted funds”). The BlackRock Group shall meet such research costs out of its own resources. MiFID II-impacted funds are those which have appointed a BlackRock Group MiFID firm as investment adviser or where investment management has been delegated by such firm to an overseas affiliate. Funds which have directly appointed an overseas affiliate of the BlackRock Group within a third country (i.e. outside the European Union) to perform portfolio management are not in-scope for the purposes of MiFID II and will be subject to the local laws and market practices governing external research in the applicable jurisdiction of the relevant affiliate. This means that costs of external research may continue to be met out of the assets of such funds. A list of such funds is available on request from the Management Company. Where investments are made in non-BlackRock Group funds, they will continue to be subject to the external manager’s approach to paying for external research in each case. This approach may be different from that of the BlackRock Group and may include the collection of a research charge alongside trading commissions in accordance with applicable laws and market practice. This means that the costs of external research may continue to be met out of the assets within the fund.

Where permitted by applicable regulation (excluding, for the avoidance of doubt, any Funds which are in scope for MiFID II), certain BlackRock Group companies acting as investment adviser to the Funds may accept commissions generated when trading equities with certain brokers in certain jurisdictions. Commissions may be reallocated to purchase eligible research services. Such arrangements may benefit one Fund over another because research can be used for a broader range of clients than just those whose trading funded it. BlackRock Group has a Use of Commissions Policy designed to ensure only eligible services are purchased and excess commissions are reallocated to an eligible service provider where appropriate.

To the extent that investment advisers within the BlackRock Group are permitted to receive trading commissions or soft dollar commissions, with respect to the Funds (or portion of a Fund) for which they provide investment management and advice, they may select brokers (including, without limitation, brokers who are affiliated with the BlackRock Group or PNC Group) that furnish the BlackRock Group, directly or through third-party or correspondent relationships, with research or execution services which provide, in BlackRock Group's view, lawful and appropriate assistance to each applicable BlackRock Group company in the investment decision-making or trade execution processes and the nature of which is that their provision can reasonably be expected to benefit the Fund as a whole and may contribute to an improvement in the Funds' performance. Such research or execution services may include, without limitation and to the extent permitted by applicable law: research reports on companies, industries and securities; economic and financial information and analysis; and quantitative analytical software. Research or execution services obtained in this manner may be used in servicing not only the account from which commissions were used to pay for the services, but also other BlackRock Group client accounts. For the avoidance of doubt, such goods and services do not include travel, accommodation, entertainment, general administrative goods and services, general office equipment, computer hardware or premises, membership fees, employee salaries or direct money payments. To the extent that BlackRock uses its clients' commission dollars to obtain research or execution services, BlackRock Group companies will not have to pay for those products and services themselves. BlackRock Group companies may receive research or execution services that are bundled with the trade execution, clearing and/or settlement services provided by a particular broker-dealer. To the extent that each BlackRock Group company receives research or execution services on this basis, many of the same potential conflicts related to receipt of these services through third party arrangements exist. For example, the research effectively will be paid by client commissions that also will be used to pay for the execution, clearing and settlement services provided by the broker-dealer and will not be paid by that BlackRock Group company.

Each BlackRock Group company may endeavour, subject to best execution, to execute trades through brokers who, pursuant to such arrangements, provide research or execution services in order to ensure the continued receipt of research or execution services that BlackRock Group company believes are useful in their investment decision-making or trade execution process.

Each BlackRock Group company may pay, or be deemed to have paid, commission rates higher than it could have otherwise paid in order to obtain research or execution services if that BlackRock Group company determines in good faith that the commission paid is reasonable in relation to the value of the research or execution services provided. BlackRock Group believes that using commission dollars to obtain the research or execution services enhances its investment research and trading processes, thereby increasing the prospect for higher investment returns.

° The Investment Manager may, subject to applicable regulation and best execution, execute trades through brokers who, pursuant to such arrangements, provide research or execution services in order to ensure the continued receipt of research or execution services that the Investment Manager believes are useful in their investment decision-making or trade execution process. To the best of their knowledge, the Investment Manager does not engage in any portfolio or market manipulative practices, including, but not limited to churning of trade.

2 SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

a. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are expressed in Singapore dollars and are prepared in accordance with the historical cost convention, except for investments, which are carried at fair value.

b. Recognition of Income and Expenses

Dividend income is recognised when the shareholders' right to receive payment is established. Interest income is recognised as interest accrues (using the effective interest method).

Expenses are recognised on an accrual basis.

c. Investments

All purchases of investments are recognised on their trade dates, ie., the date of commitment exists to purchase the investments. The investments are initially recorded at fair value (or at costs representing fair value on trade date) which would include transaction costs directly attributable to the acquisition of the investments. After initial recognition, the unrealised gains or losses on remeasurement to fair value are taken to the Capital Account. Fair value is determined by using open market valuation at the year-end date. The closing price has been adopted for all investments.

d. Derivative financial instruments

All derivatives are carried at fair value. All fair value changes on derivatives are taken to the Underlying Funds' Capital Account.
